How can this workbook help you?

This workbook will help you organise your thoughts for the mediation. It will help you to plan what is important to say and how to say it.

A General Mediation Process

(flexible as facilitated by the mediator)

Mediation is not a linear process. You may repeat steps where necessary to come to a solution that meets both parties requirements.

Is your future relationship with the other parties a concern?

It might be important for you to get along and talk to each other in the future.

- > Consider the future as you go through the workbook
- > Talk to your Mediator about ways to support the future relationship during mediation.
- Separate what you want and why you want it

| Issue | What I want | Why I want it |

The other parties point of view

One of the main aims of mediation is to seek an outcome that all parties can agree to. Being prepared to consider the other parties interests will increase your ability to reach resolution.

| Issue | What the other parties want | Why the other parties want it |

■ Potential ways to resolve the problem/s

To achieve resolution at mediation both parties need to reach agreement (or compromise). Try to think of some different ideas that may be acceptable to both parties.

| Issue | Options that may be possible at mediation | | | |
|-------|---|--|--|--|
| | | | | |
| | | | | |
| | | | | |
| | | | | |

■ Reality testing these options

Go through your possible options to see which ones are practical and may provide an acceptable outcome for both parties.

| Issue | Possible solution | Barriers that may prevent this solution from working | Are there any ways these barriers could be overcome |
